Menus in WaitLess

A menu (combo) is a fixed-price offer made of several sections, such as starter, main and dessert. The guest chooses section by section, and it shows up as a single line with the menu price in the cart and on the order.

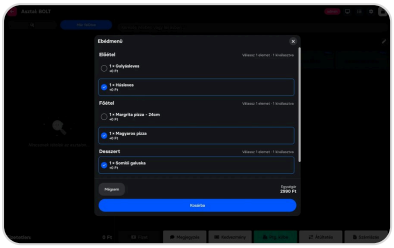
Three examples

What three common menus look like in practice.

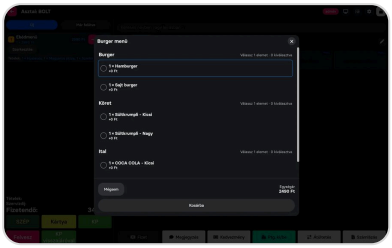


Once every section has a choice, Kosárba turns blue and Egységár shows the fixed menu price.

Lunch menu (Ebédmenü)

2,990 Ft

- Three sections: Előétel (starter), Főétel (main), Desszert
- The guest picks one from each

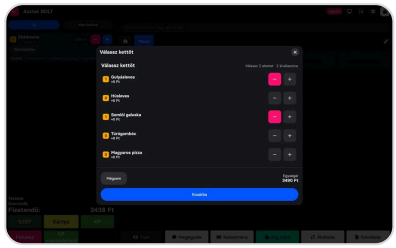


The Burger menü is available at the TERRACE sales point.

Burger menu (Burger menü)

2,490 Ft

- Burger, side, drink
- Available only at the TERRACE sales point, hidden elsewhere



In "Válassz kettőt", after two picks all + buttons turn grey so no more can be added.

Pick two (Válassz kettőt)

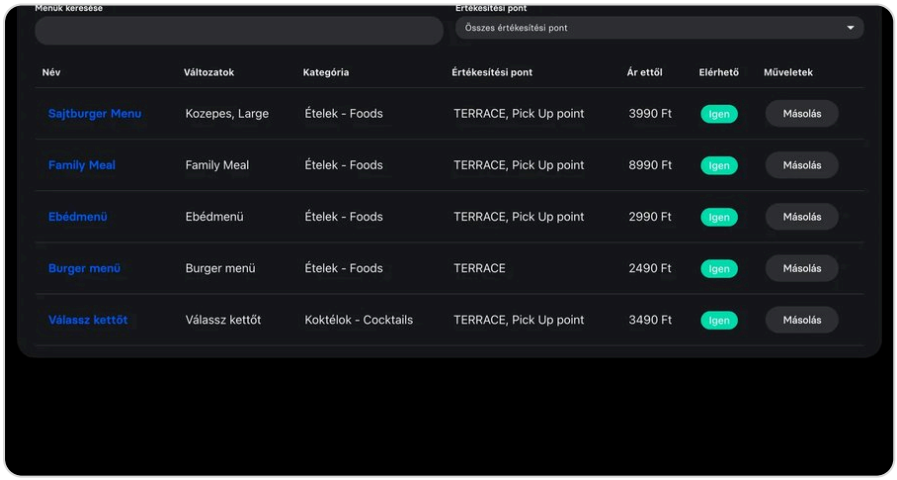
3,490 Ft

- One section where the guest picks exactly two of five items

Create a menu in the admin

You work on Products → Menük in the admin. The steps below build the Ebédmenü.

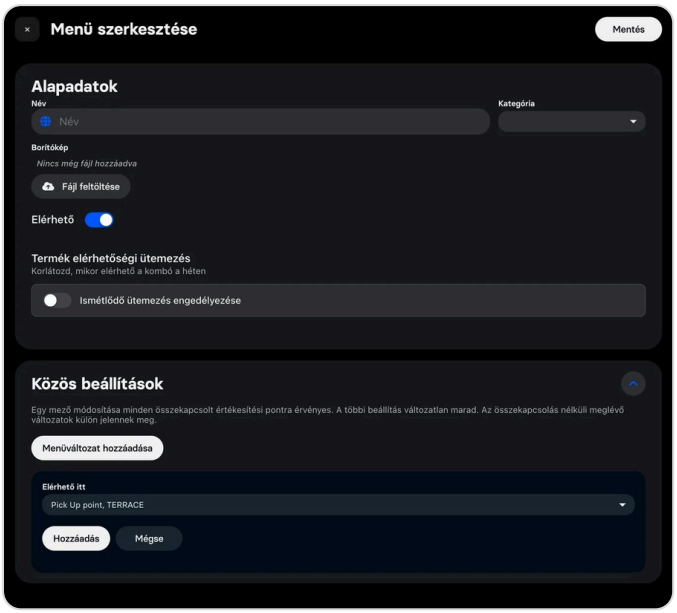
1 Start a new menu



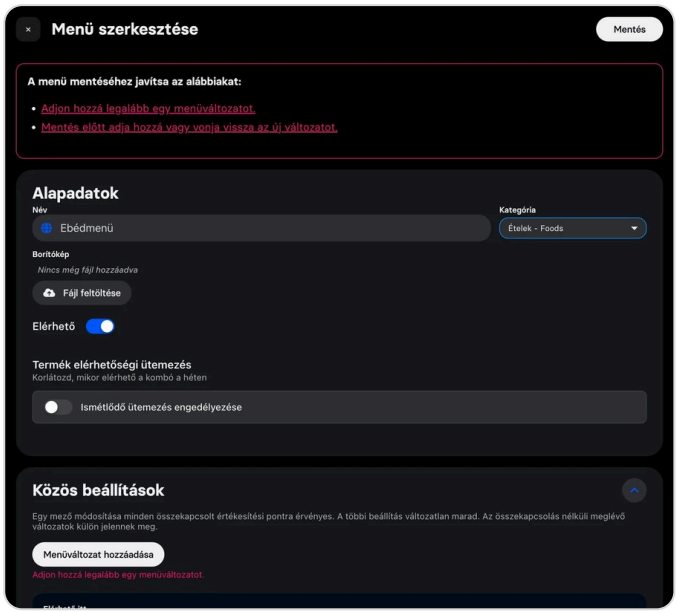
On Products → Menük you see every menu and can start a new one here.

2 Fill in Basic information

Name, category, cover image, the Available switch.

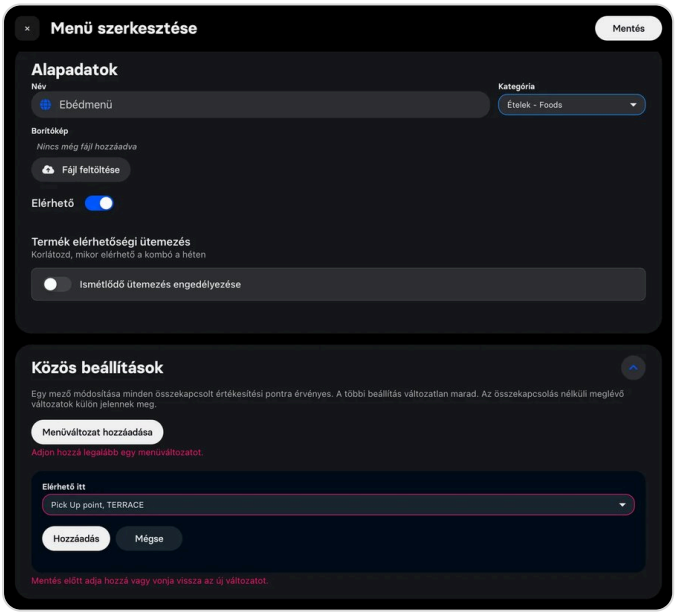


The empty editor has Basic information and Shared settings sections to fill in.

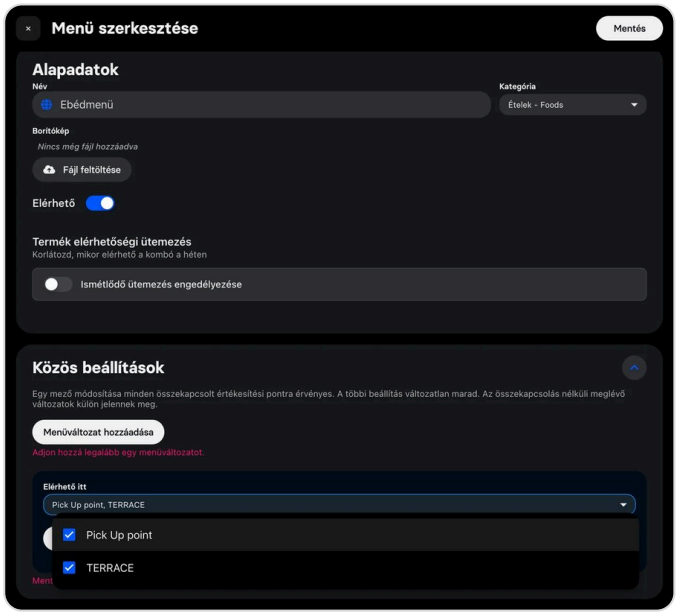


Enter the menu name and choose a category.

3 Choose the sales points



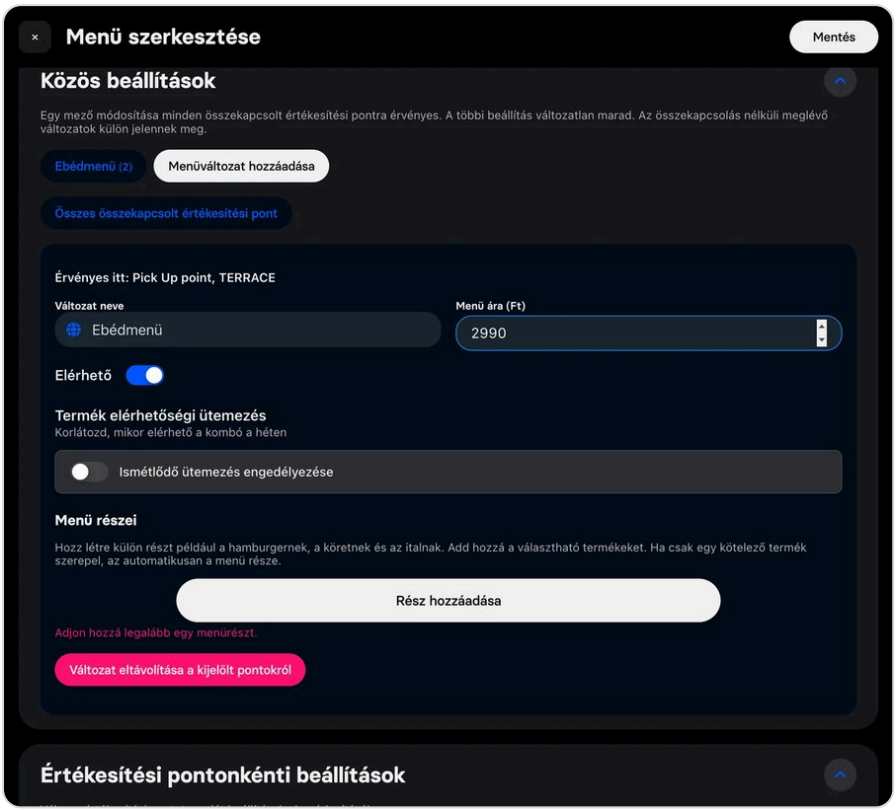
Before adding a variant, choose which sales points (revenue centers) the menu is available at.



Tick the sales points you want; unticking one hides the menu there.

4 Name the variant and set the price

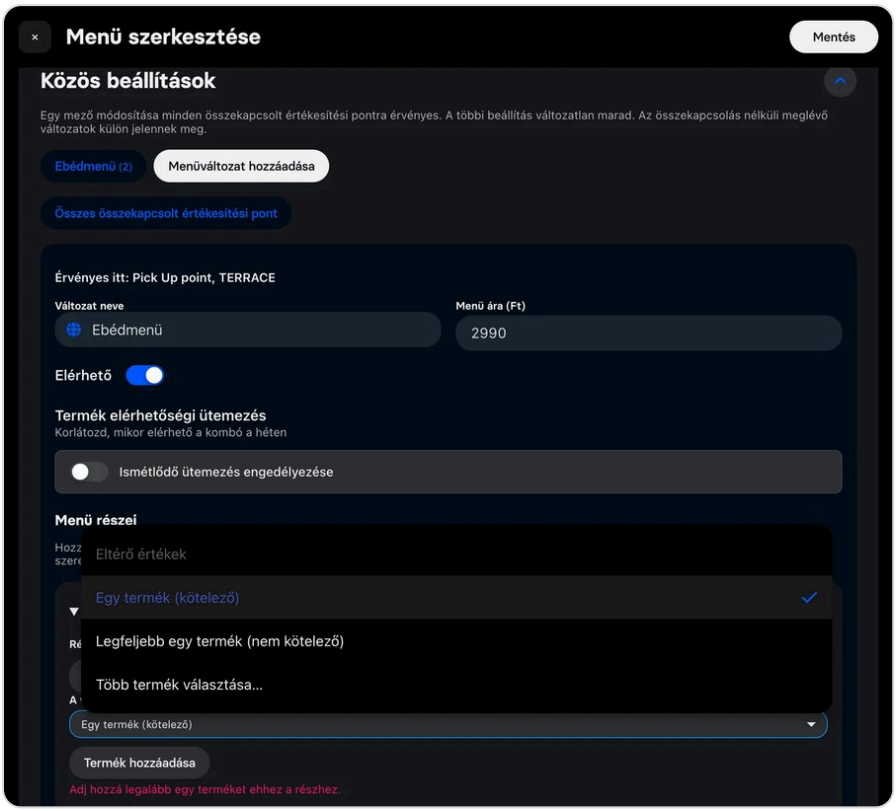
The price lives on the variant, in forints. The list shows the lowest variant price.



Give the variant a name and set the fixed menu price in forints.

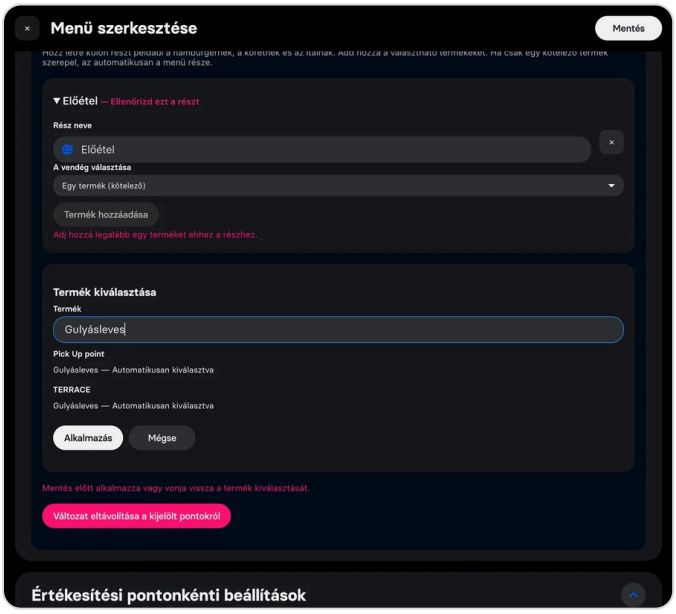
5 Set the sections and the guest's choice

Options: One item (required) · Up to one item (optional) · Choose several...

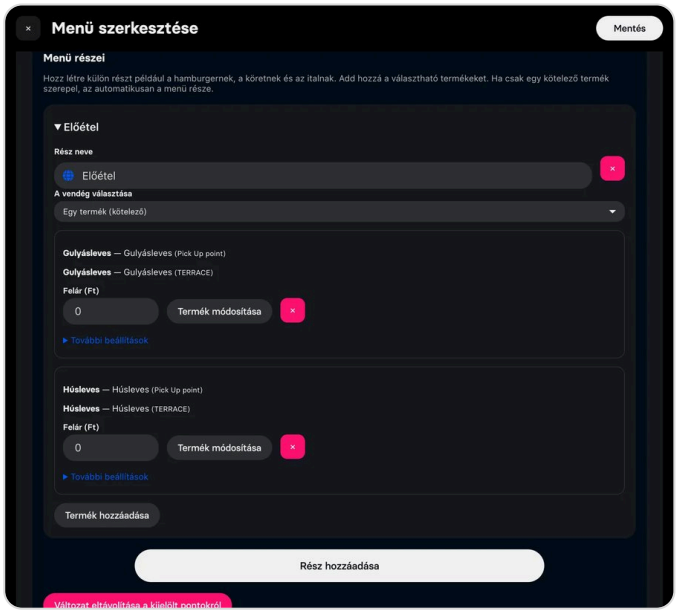


The "A vendég választása" list sets how many items a guest may pick in a section.

6 Add products, with a surcharge if needed



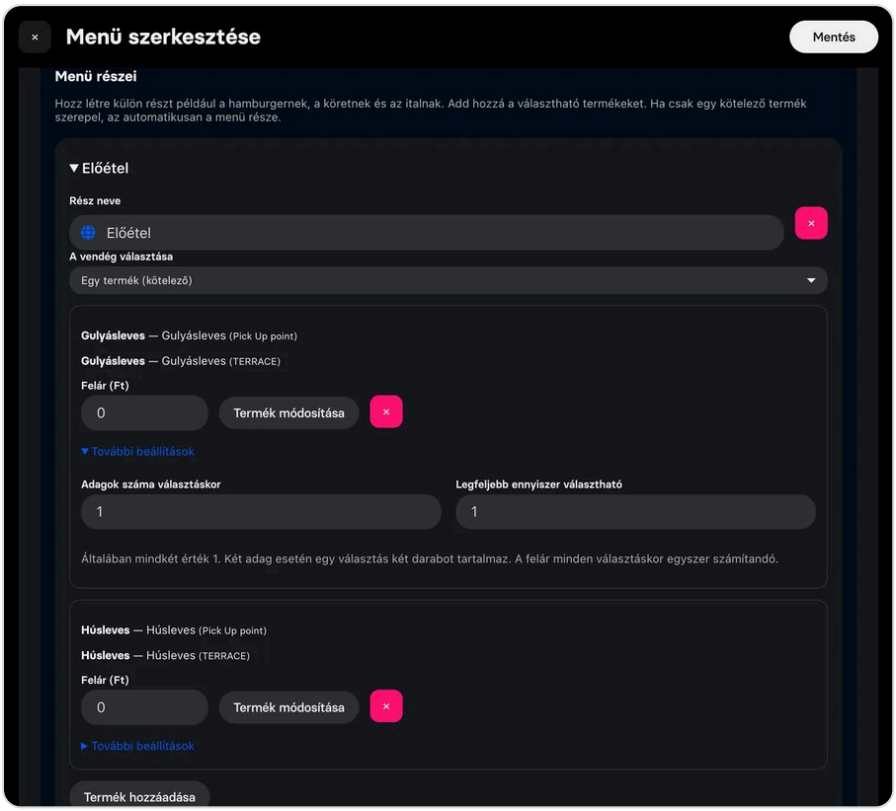
Search for a product and press Alkalmazás to add it to the section; it is matched automatically at both sales points.



A section can hold several products, each with an optional surcharge.

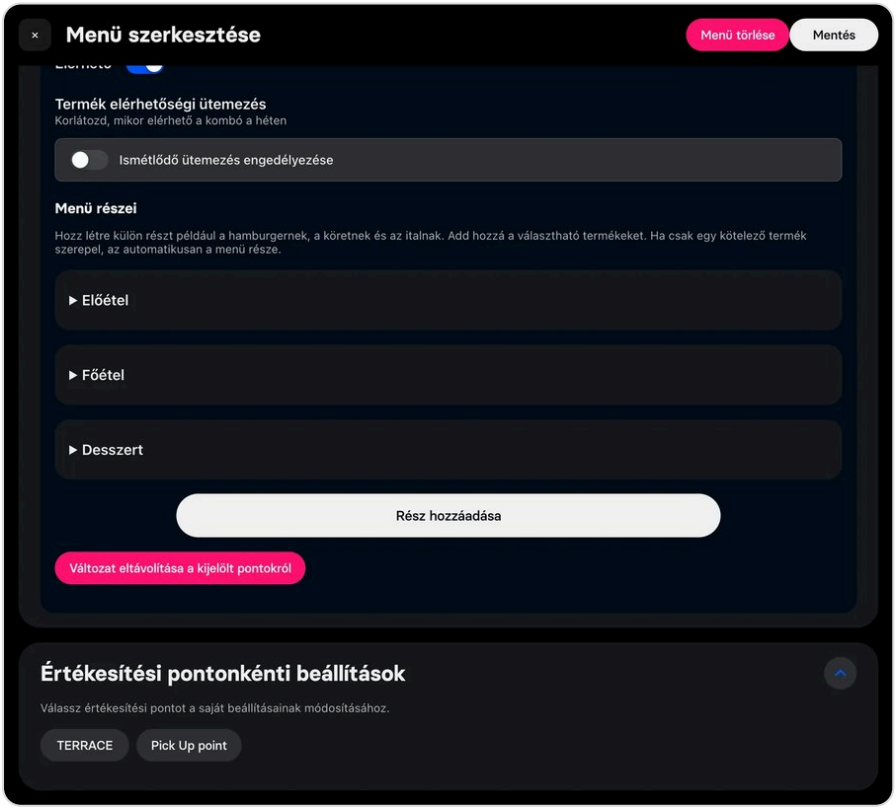
7 More options

Number of portions and repeat selection, for example for a family menu.



Under More options you set the number of portions and how many times a product can be chosen.

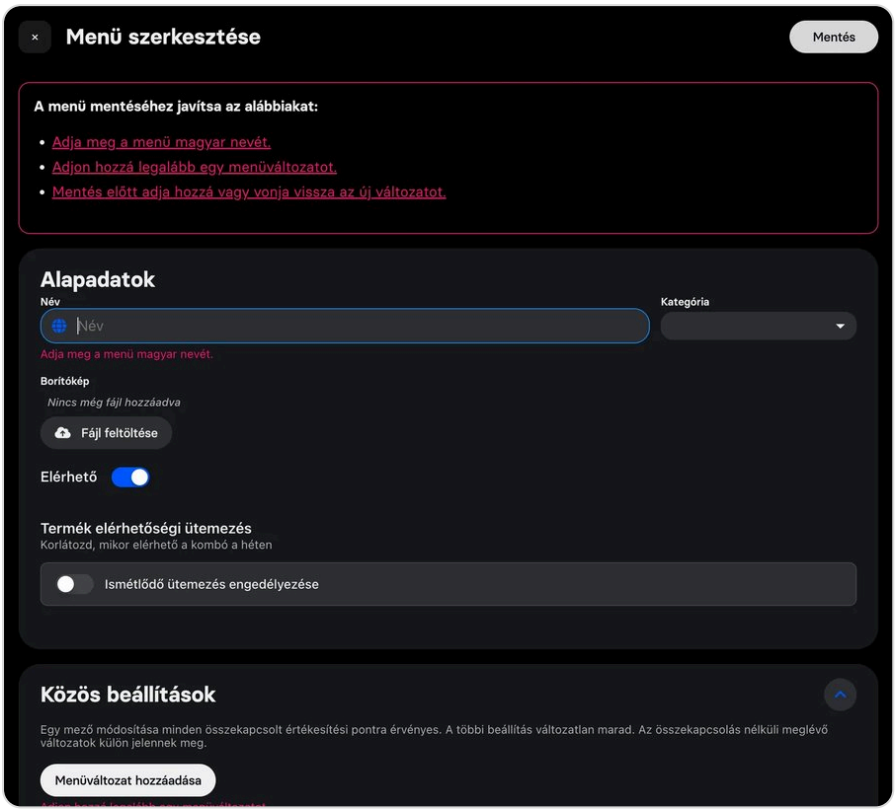
8 Save



The finished Ebédmenü has three sections: Előétel, Főétel and Desszert.

9 If something is missing

On save the form lists what is still missing (menu name, at least one variant, at least one section, a product in every section).



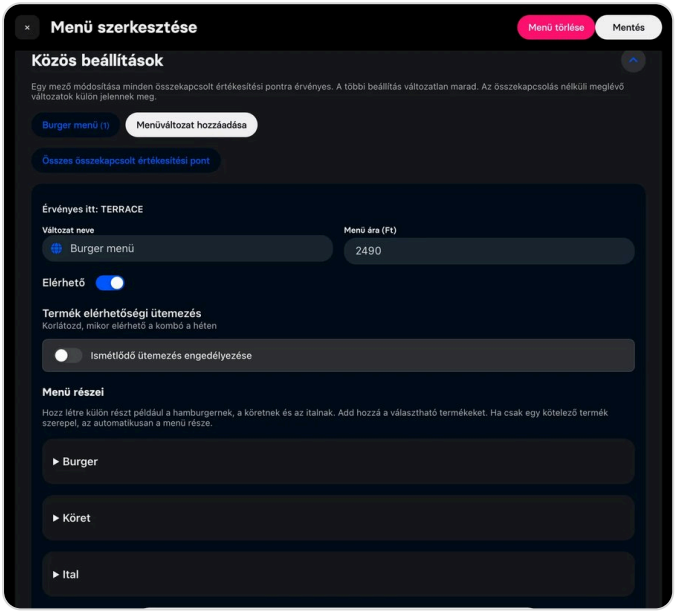
Saving an empty form lists exactly what is still missing.

Tip: Only products that have a variant at the chosen sales point can be added to a menu. If the product picker shows an error, check the product's sales point settings.

Set it per sales point

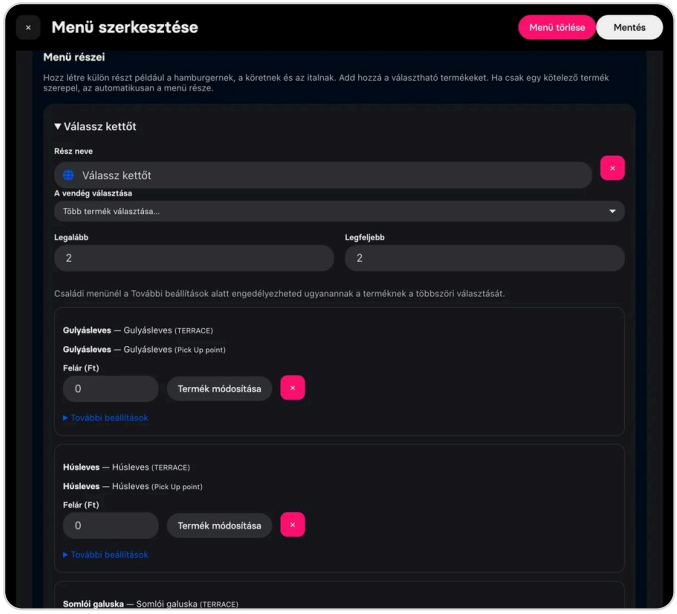
For each menu variant you choose the sales points where it is available, so the same menu can run only on the terrace, only at the counter, or everywhere. Edit shared settings once and they apply to every linked point; when one point needs to differ, override it under the per-sales-point adjustments (Értékesítési pontonkénti beállítások).

Example: Burger menu at TERRACE only



The Burger menü variant is valid only at TERRACE, so it does not appear elsewhere.

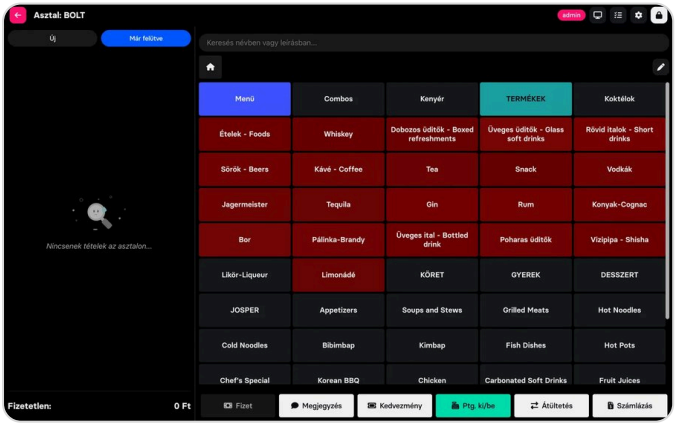
Example: Pick two (At least 2, At most 2)



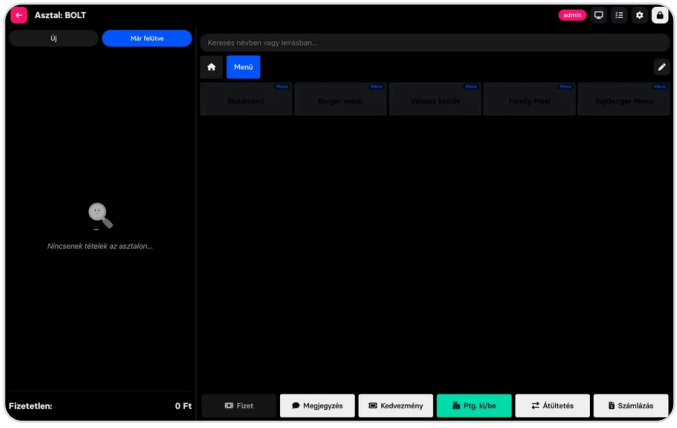
The "Több termék választása..." rule lets guests pick exactly two items (Legalább 2, Legfeljebb 2).

How it looks on the POS

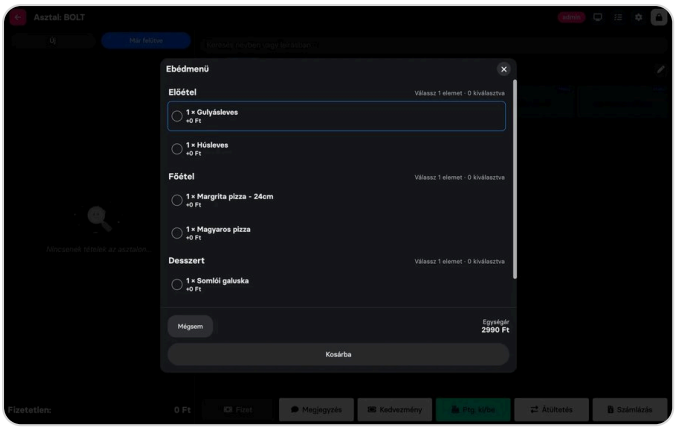
Staff find the same menu on the POS, choose section by section, and Kosárba (Add to cart) only turns on once the choice is complete. The POS screenshots show the Hungarian interface.



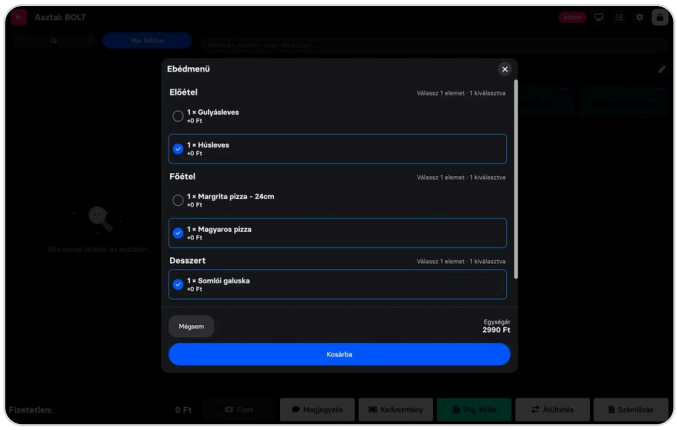
After opening a table, the "Menü" category is the first one in the category grid.



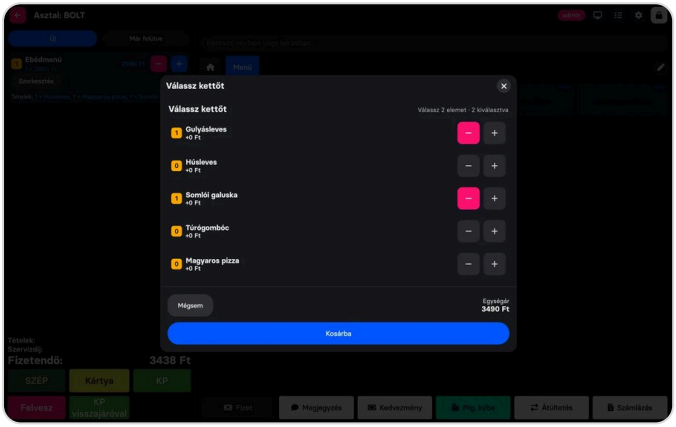
Inside the Menü category each menu carries a small "Menü" badge that sets it apart from normal products.



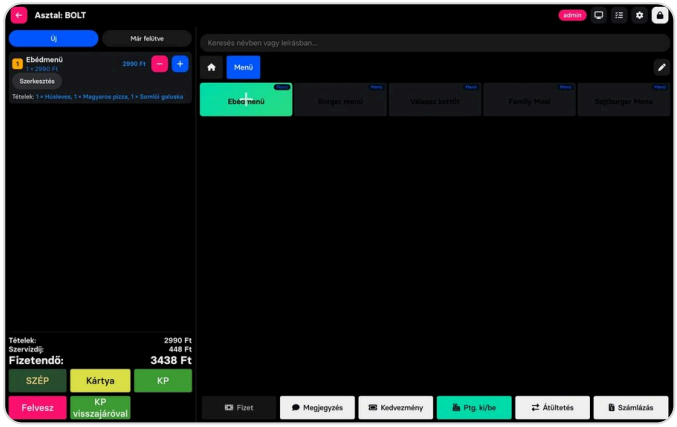
Tapping a menu opens it section by section; Kosárba stays disabled until every section is complete.



Once every section has a choice, Kosárba turns blue and Egységár shows the fixed menu price.



In "Válassz kettőt", after two picks all + buttons turn grey so no more can be added.

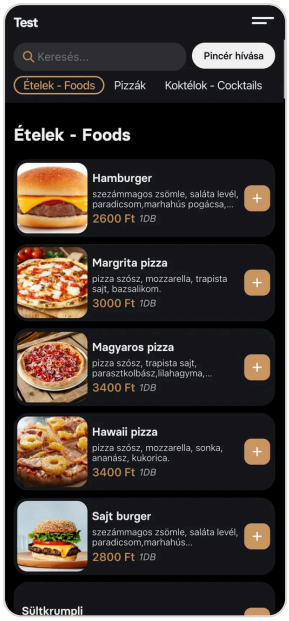


In the cart the menu is one line with the menu price and the list of chosen items.

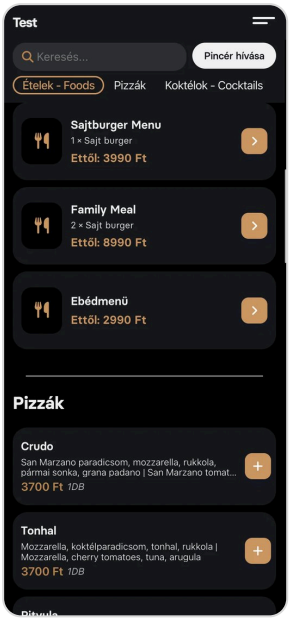
Good to know: You build the “Menü” category in the POS catalog and drag the menus into it. In the cart the service charge is a separate line (if the venue uses one); it does not change the fixed menu price.

What the guest sees in QR ordering

Guests build the menu step by step on their own phone (screenshots show the Hungarian guest interface). It appears in the category set in its Basic information, and it is hidden where it is not valid (for example the Burger menu at tables outside TERRACE).



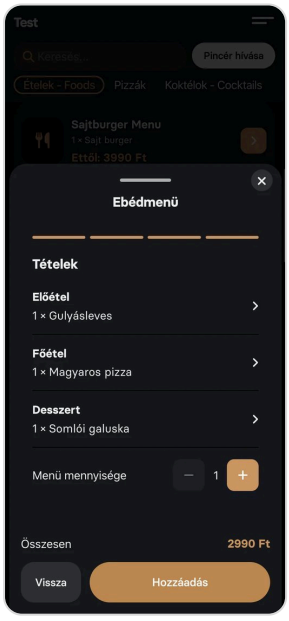
After scanning the QR code the guest sees the menu split into categories.



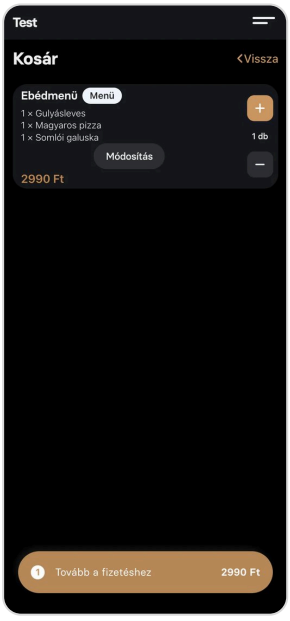
Menus show inside their category with a fork-and-knife icon, an "Ettől" ("From") starting price and an arrow button.

Tapping a menu opens a step-by-step wizard with a progress bar, "Előétel 1 / 3" and how many items can be chosen.

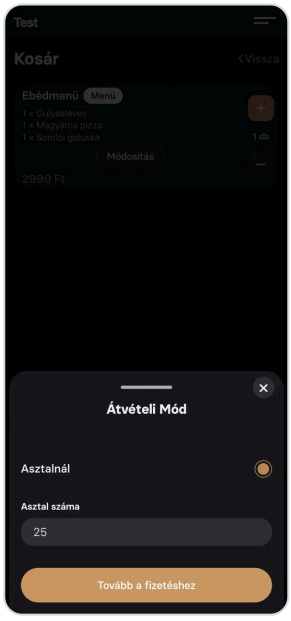
When the allowed number is reached the + buttons grey out and Folytatom (Next) becomes active.



The summary step lists the chosen items and lets you set the menu quantity.



In the cart the menu carries a "Menü" badge, the chosen items and the menu price, and can be changed with Módosítás (Edit).



Before payment the guest confirms the takeover mode and table number; payment starts from here.
